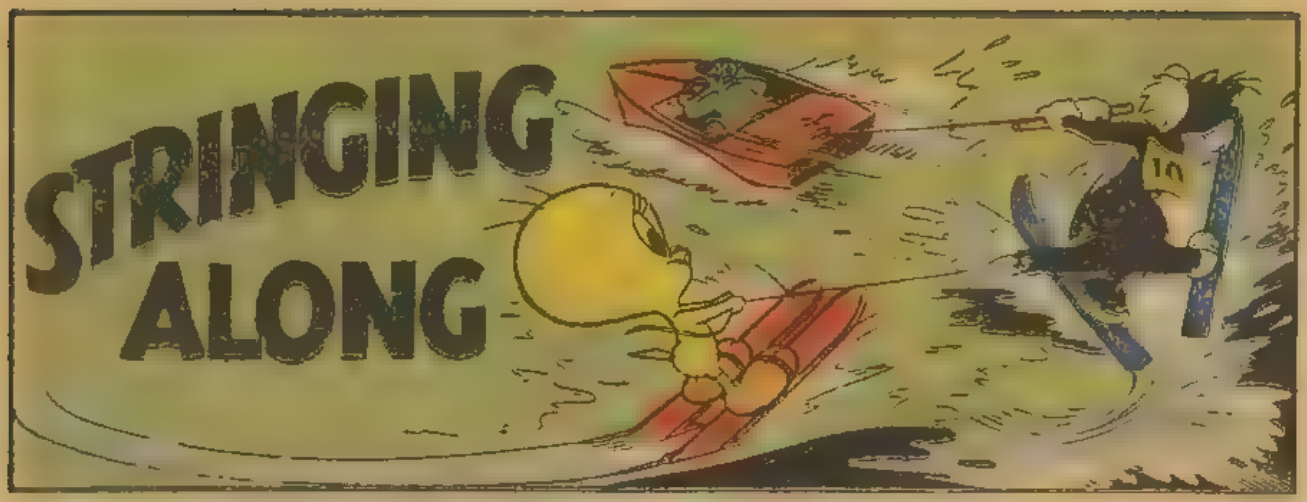
STRINGING ALONG



It was the day of the big water skiing contest, and Sylvester the Cat came swaggering up to Tweety's window sill on his way to the lake. "No need to be alarmed, you mosquito-sized canary!" he sneered. "I'm much too busy practicing my water skiing act to chase Tweety birds today!"

"A puddy tat on water skis!" giggled Tweety. "What a widiculous idea! Now, a Tweety bird on water skis—THAT might be intewesting!"

At this, Sylvester slapped his knees and howled with laughter. "Haw! Haw!" he chortled. "Fat chance YOU'D have in the contest, stupid! They don't even make water skis to fit those toothpick legs of yours!" And leaving Tweety looking crestfallen, the big cat sauntered off toward the lake.

"Dear me, I'm afwaid Sylvester is wight!" admitted Tweety to himself. "Guess I haven't much chance of entewing the contest."

As his tiny head sagged to his chest with disappointment, he spied something lying below in the grass and fluttered down to investigate.

"Why, it's an old ice-cweam stick!" Tweety exclaimed. "In fact, it's two ice-cweam sticks! Doodness, I do believe my pwoblem is solved!" And with that, he flew into the house to get a ball of string from Granny's sewing basket.

"Now to show that old puddy tat a thing or two!" giggled Tweety. "Old Puddy is in for the surpwise of his life!"

A few minutes later, with the ice-cream sticks balanced on his tiny shoulder, Tweety marched down to the lake shore to look for Sylvester.

A crowd had gathered on the beach to watch the performance, and as Tweety approached, a voice was heard on the loudspeaker. "And now," it blared, "Contestant Number Ten will perform! Presenting Sylvester the Cat!"

There was a loud roar as a motorboat took off from the dock, and with a SWOOSH! of the skis, Sylvester glided majestically out onto the water.

"That puddy tat is pwetty good at this game!" thought Tweety, watching from the dock as Sylvester balanced first on one foot and then the other. Then, suddenly, Tweety clapped his tiny wings to his head in dismay. "There are no Tweety-sized boats to tow me!" he exclaimed. "This is twagic!"

Just then, Sylvester came whizzing past the dock, and his long tail almost swept Tweety into the water. "Puddy will wegwet this!" piped Tweety. "This mishap gives me a gweat idea!" Quickly tying the ice-cream sticks to his tiny feet, he swung the rest of the string around and around his head like a lasso. "Now for Contestant Number Eleven—ME!"

As Sylvester came whizzing by again, Tweety lassoed the cat's tail.

"Hooray!" shouted the crowd as the tiny bird on water skis was whisked out onto the water. Sylvester was too busy grinning and bowing to notice.

An hour later, Tweety trudged happily homeward, carrying a huge loving cup that almost concealed him from sight. Behind him slunk Sylvester, looking very glum.

"Cheer up, Puddy Tat!" chirped Tweety. "Even if you didn't win the contest, you'll have to admit that I was wight BEHIND YOU all the way!"

② The BEST BIRTHDAY GIFT YOU CAN GIVE

(A)_____

Give "safety thru skill." Train me to handle, shoot a gun properly. Daisy is the best for this. Since 1888 Daisy has used the same safer spring-type action —the safer short range— the safer low "factory limited" power. It is NOT a lethal pneumatic, gas, pellet or compressed air gun. I have checked the Daisy Training Rifle I want for my birthday.
